

Pee Oh Tea whY?

We are in that annual period of limbo, as the old year crawls away and the more credulous amongst us convince ourselves once more that somehow next year will be better. If past performance is anything to go by, that optimism is sadly misplaced.....

Two Stops Over Exposed

Another sign of this time is the need for some photographers to remind the public of their work from the past 12 months.....most, but not all, would do better to keep quiet and hope that the thin fare that they served up would be forgotten in the passage of time.....even more ridiculous are those who “explain their art” and in the process display their utter cluelessness.....

For my part one image I snapped at the tracks stood out.....it shows all that is wrong with motorsport photography, but what do I know?
